

01. 가구

People who live alone without parents, siblings, or children are called “single-person households.”

02. 가사

After getting married, I realized how hard it is to take care of the housework.

03. 가장

The man in this drama is the breadwinner of an ordinary family, who lives with his wife and two daughters.

04. 가정

My dream is to marry the person I love and have a happy family.

05. 기혼

According to a survey, the number of married people is decreasing more and more.

EXAM TIP ▲

As “기혼 (married)” and “미혼 (unmarried)” appear frequently in newspapers, on the news, in graphs, on surveys, etc., make sure to study them.

06. 꺼리다

Recently, the number of young people who are avoiding marriage in order to enjoy their individual lives is increasing.

07. 낳다

Recently, while the number of single-person households is increasing, the number of families having children is decreasing.

08. 대신(하다) ☆

My grandmother takes care of me in place of my busy parents.

09. 데리다

Over the holiday, I took my children to the amusement park.

10. 독립(하다)

I graduated college and became independent from my parents and am living alone.

11. 독신

There are more unmarried men and women who think living alone is comfortable.

12. 돌보다

There's nobody to look after my child while I work so I decided to quit my job.

13. 맡기다

We're a dual-income couple so I leave my child with my parents and then go to work.

14. 미혼

All my friends are married and I'm the only single person.

15. 반려

Marriage is a day when you promise to be with your partner for the rest of your life.

EXAM TIP ▲

“반려자” means “someone who becomes your partner” and is usually used to refer to one of the members of a couple.

BACKGROUND KNOWLEDGE ▲

In the past, animals like cats or dogs were called “애완동물” (literally, “beloved animals”), with the meaning of being raised in order to bring enjoyment to people. However, recently, as awareness grew of animals and people living together as family, they began to be called “반려동물” (literally, “companion animals”). The term “반려식물,” which frequently appears on exams, refers to plants that are grown and kept close in daily life, like pets.

16. 방식 ☆

My partner and I have different thoughts about child rearing methods so we often argue.

17. 병행(하다)

It's very difficult to raise a child and work at the same time.

18. 부담(하다) ☆

He shoulders the burden of his child's childcare and living expenses by himself.

19. 부모

Every parent wishes for their child to live a happy life.

EXAM TIP ▲

“학부모” refers to a student's mother and father, the student's “guardians.”

20. 살림(하다)

People who don't work and just keep house are called homemakers.

21. 손자

My father really adored his grandchild that my older sister gave birth to.

22. 아기

It's hard to have time for yourself when you're raising a baby.

23. 양육(하다)

There are a lot of couples who face conflict because of child rearing.

24. 육아

In order to leave a record of my daily life spent with my child, I started writing a parenting diary.

25. 임신부

Recently, as the number of women who are marrying late increases, the number of older pregnant women over the age of 35 is increasing.

26. 임신(하다)

My older sister received congratulations from a lot of people when she shared the news of her pregnancy after 5 years of marriage.

27. 자녀

Dual-income parents lack time to talk with their children.

28. 집안

Lately I can't sleep because I'm worried about a family problem.

29. 출산(하다)

I gave baby clothes as a gift to my friend who was about to give birth soon.

BACKGROUND KNOWLEDGE ▲

The phenomena of the number of children being born decreasing and the elderly population increasing are called “저출산 (low birthrate)” and “고령화 (aging),” respectively. Additionally, a society in which these phenomena occur is called “저출산 · 고령화 사회 (low birthrate and aging society).”

30. 친정

Dual-income couples who can't find somewhere to leave their children receive help from in-laws (husband's family) or biological parents (wife's family).

31. 휴직(하다)

My father applied for childcare leave instead of my mother, who was busy with work.

32. 희생(하다)

After giving birth and raising a baby, I became thankful for my parents' love and sacrifice.
